

MURRAY NEWMAN – THE FOUNDATION’S VOLUNTEER OF THE YEAR

Murray Newman

The Jewish Federation of Omaha Foundation nominated Murray Newman as its first-ever Volunteer of the Year. “Whenever you think of the cornerstone families,” Executive Director Amy Bernstein Shivers said, “those who have played a major role in building the Omaha Jewish community, you’ll find the name ‘Newman.’ Inspired by father Jule, Murray Newman has been a vital and influential community leader for decades.”

A founding member of the JFO Foundation Board and having served as its Chair, his extensive knowledge, intelligence, investment expertise and sound advice have been invaluable. In 2009, Murray and his wife Sharee were named Humanitarians of the Year by the Jewish Federation of Omaha, noting his genuine passion to make this community strong, maintain what has already been built and always with an eye on the future. Murray shows up every day with his time, talent and financial support.

Murray continues to be engaged and active on the Jewish Federation of Omaha Foundation Board and its Investment Committee (he was the Committee Chair from 2003 to 2022).

“We are all truly grateful for your loyalty, commitment and service in every facet of our Jewish community. Thank you, Murray!”
